Meet the Designer Katie Coates

“The Southwest is dramatic, vibrant and diverse. Plant life, sunsets, weather, vistas, art, culture, lifestyle: it all works together to create a rich palette of life experiences unlike anywhere else in the country. When I create an outdoor environment, I plan with your lifestyle and interests in mind. A variety of space vignettes, plants, textures, hardscape and colors collide to create beauty, sound and movement for your visual and physical pleasure. My goal is for you to love and enjoy your outdoor space!”

Katie has lived in Colorado, California and Arizona and is undeniably attracted to the west, southwest and rocky mountain regions. After moving to Arizona eight years ago, Katie blended her skills in rocky mountain gardening with desert landscaping, becoming a Certified Desert Landscape Designer through Desert Botanical Gardens and a Certified Master Gardener through University of Arizona’s Cooperative Extension program for Maricopa County. Katie offers desert landscaping design services focused on choosing the right plants for our unique climate as well as integrating more lush, blooming garden plants that require less water, helping you keep your water bills lower while benefiting the environment.
